

Australian Olympic Committee

The Australian Olympic Committee (AOC) is our National Committee, responsible for developing, promoting and protecting the Olympic Movement in Australia. The AOC is a non-government, not-for-profit organisation, committed to the development of sport and the ongoing participation of Australia in Olympics and other Games.

HEAD OF PEOPLE & CULTURE

Reporting to the CEO, this critical role will be responsible for coordinating the development and delivery of a new end-to-end HR model to help transform the AOC's culture and drive exceptional process throughout the organisation.

As part of the senior leadership team, you will play a pivotal role in initiating and embedding the recommendations from The Ethics Centre Review. You will bring people management experience to the AOC's athlete centred programs and policies including Olympian transition.

With a broad generalist HR and organisational change background, you will bring outstanding strategic management capabilities along with the ability to drive collaboration and rebuild trust.

HEAD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS & COMMUNICATION

As a communications expert you will be responsible for developing and refining the AOC's core messaging, providing leadership on all media relations and ensuring strategy is aligned to AOC's core objectives.

You will have proven experience in planning and delivering robust communication strategies and a combination of public affairs, media and marketing knowledge.

As part of the senior management team you will be entrusted to manage the brand; the communicator of all that the AOC do to support our athletes, advocate sport, educate and instill the Olympic spirit in our community.
